Life on the Frontline

In today's Life on the Frontline video we hear from Stewart Priest, eHealth Infrastructure Consultant. Stewart talks about his involvement in the roll out of Microsoft teams across the organisation as well the pride he has in the team setting up the patient centred virtual visiting programme.

He also tells us about how working from home and entertaining children is no picnic!

Armed Forces Week (Reserves Day 24 June)

Today sees the celebration of Reserves Day which highlights and recognises the valuable contribution Reservists make to our Armed Forces.

We have a number of active Reservists and we want to take this opportunity to say a huge thank you to them for their significant contribution to our services and those of the Armed Forces. We recognise that the training they undertake plus mobilisation experience, enhance and develop skills that benefit us particularly during this pandemic. Skills such as leadership, communication, team working and organisational ability are all attributes that we greatly appreciate in our teams.

Our colleagues in the military have been indispensable in recent weeks, helping our health and safety teams with FFP3 face fit testing. Working alongside us, our Army colleagues have provided instructors to make sure that PPE is correct and that we are getting the protection we need when coming to work. Together, the two teams have been working across all sites to deliver the programme providing increased capacity for numbers of staff to be fit tested.

We are keen to update our information on our current Reservists to ensure we can provide you with the level of support needed in the workplace. If you undertake a Reserve Forces role please let us know by contacting: diana.hudson@ggc.scot.nhs.uk who will be able to answer any questions you may have and will be your central point of contact for any future needs.

Director of Allied Health Professions appointed

Fiona Smith has been appointed to the role of Director of Allied Health Professions.

Fiona is currently a Senior AHP Manager in NHS Ayrshire and Arran and brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to this role. Fiona will be joining us on 10 August and we look forward to welcoming her to NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde.
